The Inevitable Bit.

1. Crew PD's will be paid in advance and in sterling. There will be no subbage nor will anyone be paid directly. All invoices must be sent to Pulp c/o Julia Trice at the address listed on the contact numbers page. If you need any cash to buy small crofts in the Shetlands or those pink donkeys with sombreros on in Barcelona then prepare your finances accordingly. It might be a good idea not to spend all your PD's on that ten minutes between midnight and seven thirty a.m. as soon as you get them....
2. If you have any problems then let myself and Roger (or your respective tech) know as soon as possible and we'll do whatever we can to sort it out. These shows will be manic in some respects due to the travel arrangements, size of shows and Freud Communications. Please bear with us, especially in Barcelona.
3. Any floats issued are to be returned with a written breakdown and the change.
4. The Shetlands

Candida is attracting much local attention here, with people calling up trying to find out where she's staying. As our Colin and all of Topgaurd are working for Oasis we'll have unfamiliar security working under our direction. There's likely to be a lot of attention on us while we're there so help out with escorting the turn when you can.
5. The Press

We don't do press.

The tabloids are likely to come along just to plant drugs, throw children down stairs in front of us and then take photo's of the turn holding 'Lucky Lotto' cards.
Be polite with them.
If that doesn't work let Melissa or myself know.
If that still doesn't work then let Colin know.
All the roads in the Shetlands are B roads and there's lots of them around Chelmsford and Warrington too.
As for Barcelona it's a maze once you start heading inland across Catalunya.
To be quite honest you may as well tell Colin straight away.
6. How good is Richard Banks?
Dead ace, I reckon
7. Barcelona

For those of you who don't normally travel with us could you make sure that you familiarize yourselves with departure times and points as and when relevant. As we've got a large party it will be impossible for me to call all your rooms to remind you that it's time to leave the hotel, or to run around the venue looking for you if it's time to leave. Unfortunately, usually for them, this is the privilege of working personnel only. If you're not ready for bus departures etc. then you may well get left behind. Not because we're particularly spiteful, although that does play a part in it, but because we will have a schedule that we have to keep to. Thank You.
8. Basically the badger is a stupid animal, as well as being stripey.
9. Any times or details not in this itinerary etc are because I didn't have them at time of printing. I'll let you know when I do.
10. That's all. Enjoy.

NOTES:

The after show will be at the hotel. There will be some security at the door to the hotel checking passes. Expect a lot of kids to try to crash it. Not to worry though, Princess Candida knows them all.

Some of our security tonight used to be prison warders.

WHERE'S YOUR TOOL? 'KIN SCREWS!!!!!!!!!!

The nearest train station is in Bergen, that's in Norway.

Our support band tonight are Chin. Be very nice to them, as I'm sure you will be. We shall go out of our way to accomodate them if necessary.

As curfew is so late the running times aren't written in stone although it would be good to get the doors open on time.

We have to leave at 09.45 tomorrow (latest), just so's you know.

NOTES:

The hotel is the venue for the aftershow party. After you've come off stage your guests can make their way back to the hotel (it's a five minute drive from the site) where the aftershow passes that they've been issued with will gain them access. This seems eminently more sensible than ramming the dressing room for fifteen minutes and then trying to move. Si?
 Also it's Weller World Day in Chelmsford. Is it just me or do the verses of that Kula Shaker single sound like Spinal Tap when they were the Kingsmen?
 I did try to get a submarine for you to travel to the venue in but it wouldn't fit in the canal.

On the Saturday afternoon the spawny gets who won the competition are being let out to play on the beach. They will be out going lobster red on the beach that is to the right (south) of the hotel as you look at the sea. If you don't want to get nightmared then I suggest that you avoid going to the far end of that beach.

Unless there's a big f*** off emergency then all of the Pulp party have the day off until around 16.00 - 17.00 when the buses will take us up to the venue. If you intend to make your own way up there then let myself, Roger or Colin know.

After soundcheck and the show there will be buses to take you back to the hotel. Departure times will be postered around (or if they're not then ask me for them....) if you're not on the bus you may have to make your own way back into town. It's about £5 in a sherbert.

Once the buses have dropped you at the hotel or the club then they'll disappear until the following day so make sure you've got enough money for a taxi or know your way home.

The hotel is about a mile from the Ramblas. It's only our party who are in the Hotel Arts. Everyone else is in the Ambassador.

To hotel and then to Otto Zutz nightclub, to party really fucking hard for those that are interested. For those that aren't interested you can either go off and amuse yourselves in whatever bacchanaalian way you see fit or I'm taking names for those that fancy a rubber of bridge or a few games of dominos.

Off to party really f***ing hard, I'd wager.

NOTES:

There will be ragga's galore here, all in posh clothes though. There'll also be a fair amount of journo's whom we'll endeavour to keep away from the turn. Apparently there'll be another nightclub vibe tonight but I'm awaiting details. Dr Batter may come 'round with his big stick tonight as might the bus gorilla who'll probably break into your rooms while you sleep (ha!), smash them up, empty your mini bar and give you a panning so you feel toss in the morning. Enjoy.
Remember, even Bryan Adams is eighteen 'til he dies so I'm sure we all can be.
